GLOSSARY

Reimporting The action of bringing in an image or text file for a second time.

Scaling The enlargement or reduction of characters and images.

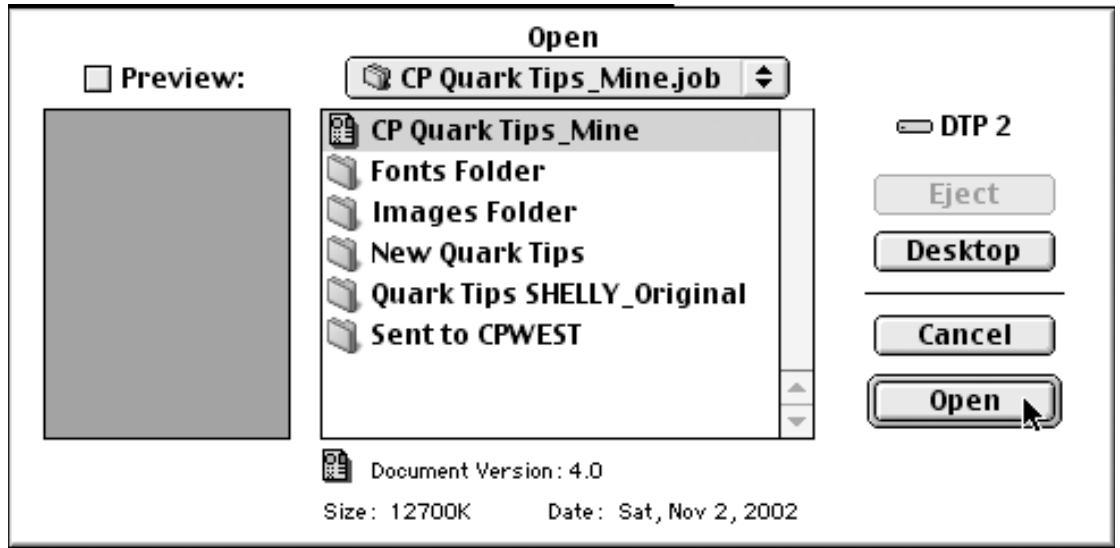

Rotation The changing of the angle of an image or text.

If QuarkXPress experiences a system failure while trying to open a document, it may be the result of a corrupt image, font or other item. If this happens, the failure will occur immediately after the document window displays, as objects are drawing.

Reimporting the graphic previews often solves this problem.

Press the Command key while you click Open in the Open dialog box and all the previews will be imported.

Any scaling and rotation of the graphics is preserved, but the previews are recreated.

A Hold down the Command key while you click Open in the Open dialog box
